ATOFINA Chemicals is proud to be a sponsor of the exhibition Degas and the Dance at the Philadelphia Museum of Art. We are delighted to share this magnificent event with our employees, our customers, neighbors and fellow citizens here in Philadelphia, our North American headquarters. At ATOFINA, “the Philadelphia Company with a French accent,” we view Degas and the Dance as a perfect opportunity to present the best of our French heritage with our ongoing involvement in the life of the community and region. We look forward with enthusiasm to the wonder and beauty that encounters with Degas will spark when it opens in Philadelphia.

ATOFINA Chemicals, Inc. produces high-performance chemicals and polymers for numerous industrial markets including construction, transportation, plastics & rubber, paints & coatings, and electronics.

ATOFINA Chemicals, Inc., is part of ATOFINA, the world’s 6th largest chemical company. ATOFINA was created in April 2000 from the merger of the chemical and petrochemical activities of TotalFina and Elf Aquitaine.
